

Guiding principles

We have developed principles to help guide the NDRP.

A principle is something that we believe is true and important.

The principles are that:

- Research should be inclusive.

- Research should be collaborative.

To collaborate is to work together with other people to achieve something.

- Information should be accessible.

Accessible means everyone should be able to use, read and understand something.

- People with disability should be helped to:
  - understand research
  - learn to do research.

Word List

Accessible

Accessible means everyone should be able to use, read and understand something.

Collaborative

To collaborate is to work together with other people to achieve something.

Principle

A principle is something that we hold as true and important.